

Letter From Mary Jane on Scott's Condition

Thursday, June 7, 2018

Friends in Christ,

Perhaps you have seen Scott around the church this week. He has been attending a few critical meetings here this week. He will officiate at a wedding this weekend. He will preach on Sunday. Scott is still not really eating solid food, so you can imagine he is quite weak. Additionally, he and I are caring for his mother, who continues to decline. Today she fell again, even though she is under our care at our home.

Most days, Mary Jane is wearing two hats – the hats of both co-pastors.

We are awaiting more tests for Scott and juggling many roles.

We appreciate so much your care and concern. We will continue to give updates to large groups as we have information to share. And we will provide updates in other ways, as we can.

Please understand that Mary Jane is limited in her ability to work if she is repeatedly answering questions regarding Scott's condition or Bobbette's condition. Please help others to understand this as well.

We thank God for the blessings of caring, the outpouring of love, and the level of compassion we feel from all of you.
